Successful Worm Farming

Wormtec is an award-winning commercial worm farm producing environmentally friendly organic fertilizers for use in the home garden and commercially.

After much research they can now extract beneficial soil biology and use it as a natural liquid fertilizer which has no negative impact on the environment.

Wormtec owner, Greg Plevy will talk about how a home worm farm operates, how to produce your own natural liquid fertilizers and how soil biology works in your garden.

Wormtec also works with schools and interested groups on environmentally friendly methods of organic waste disposal, utilising compost worms and soil biology.
